

Mr. Petke Reviews Baseball Season Of Satisfactory Merit

Praises Improvement of Infield Teamwork—Averages Given

In reviewing the baseball season, Coach Walter Petke had nothing but praise for the improvement that was shown by the entire team. In the opening game, after but one day of real practice, they were swamped by an only average Pingry team and gave up many runs because of the numerous errors. As the season progressed, both the pitching staff and the fielding of the team as a unit improved so that they were able to close the season with a shut out against Newman.

The first victory of the team came when all pre-game predictions were upset, and the Prep baseball team was able to down an unusually strong Newark Academy aggregation. Bentley, pitching for Newark, suffered his first defeat in two years. Jake Bartow pitched for Prep and was relieved by Parkinson, who received credit for the victory. Parkinson did an excellent bit of relief pitching and struck out the last five men to face him. Another game in which Prep showed its improvement was the Bordentown game, when Parkinson pitched Prep to victory, allowing only two unearned runs and not walking a single man. The other game in which Prep demonstrated their newly developed power was the last game in which Ferd Ratti pitched a shutout against Newman.

Good Infield Work

Although the Prep batting was never strong, their teamwork in the infield enabled them to win games. The infield was composed of Harper at first base, Manny Werner at second, Charlie Morfit at short, and Tony Gwiazdowski at third. Harper, a veteran held over from last year, played steady and dependable ball right from the start. The keystone combination of Werner and Morfit was shaky during the early part of the season but in the later games marked improvement was noticeable, especially in Morfit's fielding. At third Tony Gwiz played in the first few games but hurt his thumb and was relieved by Ed Kolakowski who covered the hot corner with speed remarkable considering his size. In the first few games Johnny Schmidt's catching, usually so dependable, was way off his last year's form. One of the reasons for this was the poorly broken-in mitt that he was using. With constant practice, however, he was able to round into form before too many games had gone by.

Kluey Stars in Outfield

In the outfield the most noteworthy performance was that of John Kluey, captain of the team. Kluey, an old veteran in the field and also a relief pitcher of merit, covered the garden with ease and assurance. His hitting was weak at first, but toward the end of the season he was able to muster enough hits to raise his batting average for the season to .227 per cent. Tom Wenzel showed that he is becoming quite a dependable man at bat and ran up a .231 batting average for himself.

In speaking of Jim Wells, Coach Petke was generous in his praise. Wells developed into a fine first baseman and a steady hitter in the pinches.

The batting average of the team was .172. Top man was Jim Wells who had an average of .500. The next man

Jagenburg Breaks Group III Pole Vault Record

Rutgers Prep sent two entries to the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association Track and Field Meet, held at Montclair, Saturday, May 27. These two were Rene Jagenburg, who did a brilliant job of pole vaulting, and Paul Brooke, who ran in the hundred yard dash.

The most outstanding feature of the day for Prep was the pole vaulting event, in which Jagenburg and Don Barbieri of Newark Academy tied for first place. Both vaulters jumped eleven feet six inches and thus broke the Group III Prep School record, which had been ten feet, three-eighths inches. After trying to vault at eleven feet nine inches, which both contestants were unable to do, the officials of the meet decided to call a tie. Thus, the honors of breaking the record were divided between the two contestants.

In the one hundred yard dash, Brooke ran a fine race, but the competition was a little too heavy for him, and he broke the tape in fifth place. Although Prep was represented by only a small entry, the two men brought home five and a half points, thus putting Rutgers Prep fifth in the State meet.

Homecoming Day Game Ends Season With Prep Victory

Baseball Nine Defeats Newark In Best Contest of Year

The principal sporting event of Rutgers Preparatory School's annual Homecoming Day was the baseball game with Newman School, played on Neilson Field, June 3. With this being the last game of the season, the Maroon and White team brought in another victory to make a total of four wins in eleven starts. Although Prep did not begin the season so well, at the end they were playing fine ball and defeated the boys from Lakewood by a score of 7-0.

The first two innings of the game saw Prep go scoreless. However, in the third inning, the Rutgers Prep boys got four runs on four hits. The next inning saw Prep go scoreless again, but in the fifth, Kluey drove out a home run which reached the field house on Neilson Field. Also, in this inning Schmidt was driven in by a single. In the last inning Morfit scored another run for Prep, to end the game with a score of 7-0.

Preparatory School's 173rd Commencement to Be Held June 15

Parents' Reception And Luncheon

The second Parents' Day of the year was held on Saturday June 3, at the Boarding School. Luncheon was served at 1:00 p.m., following which the guests attended the baseball game between Rutgers Preparatory School and Newman School on the adjacent Neilson Field.

Assisting Mrs. Stanley Shepard, Jr., were Mrs. W. B. Cook, Mrs. H. E. Rudy, and Mrs. M. L. Andrews. A delicious buffet luncheon of chicken patties, green peas, rolls, ice-cream and coffee was served. The school was happy to entertain the parents present, and only regrets that so many must leave as their boys graduate.

Prep's Baseball Team Wins Victory From Bordentown

Parkinson Pitches Good Game. Testeri Stars For Losers

Although Ferrapoto of Bordentown hit a circuit clout in the first inning of the game on May 31, Prep rallied to defeat the Military Institute team by a score of 6-2. Behind the beautiful pitching of Fred Parkinson, who did not walk a single man, the boys of the Rutgers Preparatory team played one of the nicest games of their season.

In the first inning Prep did no scoring at all, while Bordentown chalked up the first tally of the game with a home run. With Bordentown bringing in another run in their half of the second inning, it looked bad for Prep. However, Prep scored their first run in the third inning. In this inning Testeri, playing shortstop for Bordentown, made a stop which deserves much praise. Tom Wenzel, of Prep, hit a red hot grounder, and Testeri, turning around and bending down in an almost impossible position, stopped the ball and threw Wenzel out. A play of this type is usually seen only in the major leagues.

After scoring the run in the third inning, Prep remained behind until the sixth, by a score of 2-1. In the sixth inning, Prep pushed another run across the plate to tie the score, 2-2. The good old lucky seventh brought in four more runs for Prep, giving them the ball game. Bordentown, in their half of the seventh, were held scoreless.

Dr. Potter To Deliver Address

Seven Seniors Are Elected To Cum Laude

The 173rd Commencement of the Rutgers Preparatory School will be held in Kirkpatrick Chapel, Rutgers University, on Thursday, June 15. These exercises mark the close of a very successful year at the school, and the number of Seniors graduating exceeds that of many previous years. The services are scheduled to begin at eleven o'clock and will be followed by a buffet luncheon served on the lawn of the boarding school. All parents and boys of the school are cordially invited to attend.

Program for Exercises

The program for the commencement exercises will be opened by an organ prelude, played by Mrs. Willard Chandler Thompson, mother of W. C. Thompson '40, Dean Fraser Metzger, D.D. will then deliver the Invocation. Dean Metzger is Dean of Men at Rutgers University and a familiar figure and friend to all Prep school boys. The congregation will sing the well-known Crusader's Hymn which has long been a favorite at the school. The seven Seniors who have been elected to Cum Laude will then be presented and admitted into the order, following which the various prizes for achievement throughout the school will be awarded.

Rutgers Prep has been exceedingly fortunate in procuring for the Baccalaureate address Dr. F. Marmaduke Potter, Secretary of Foreign Missions of the Dutch Reformed Church, and father of Allen Potter of the graduating class. Dr. Potter is a member of the Preparatory School Council, a graduate of Rutgers University, and was the first Rhodes Scholar ever to be chosen from that institution. He was for a time instructor of Latin at the Prep School, on his return from Oxford. He has just returned from a sojourn in India.

Following this address, Mr. Stanley Shepard, Jr., Headmaster of the school, will make the presentation of diplomas to the graduating class, according to his usual custom. The exercises will conclude with the singing of the hymn, "God of Our Fathers," and the Benediction, to be pronounced by Dean Metzger.

Cum Laude Elections

The chapter of Cum Laude of the Rutgers Preparatory School is pleased to announce the election of the following members: Arnold, J., Schmidt, J., Kellogg, V., Wells, J., Clark, W., Feldman, L., and Mohr, H. Announcement of these elections, which represent the highest seventh of the graduating class, was made at the close of recess on Tuesday, June 6. The ceremony was conducted by Mr. Shepard, and an address was delivered by Dr. William Henry Steele Demarest. Dr. Demarest was President of Rutgers University for the long term of twenty-five years. He was also President of the New Brunswick Theological Seminary, and is at present the Chairman of the Mayor's Committee for Public Welfare in New Brunswick. He is the author of the recently

APOLOGIA

When this issue of THE ARGO goes to press, we, the editorial staff, will have made our final contribution to Rutgers Prep as undergraduates and will progress to a new Alma Mater. It is our hope that we have been successful in our efforts of elevating THE ARGO to the position that it has held in previous years and have left it a tradition that will be carried on in years to come.

A school paper is valuable to a school and its students in many ways. As stated in our first editorial, a paper's first duty is to report all of the activities of the school in order to promote school spirit. Another objective of a school paper that few students realize is the fact that it is the face of the school. Many other schools receive copies of THE ARGO, and their opinion of our school is based largely on the activities as reported by THE ARGO. This is important because many of the schools with which we exchange papers are too far distant to meet teams in competition or to visit the campus, and their lone contact with Prep is through THE ARGO. The last point of value is not what the student body and school receive from the paper but the experience that those boys that work on it receive. The field of journalism is a fine one, and early experience is a valuable asset.

We who have worked on THE ARGO hope that the school has benefited by our work and that we have made some contribution to the success of this school year.

PURPOSES

This seems an appropriate time of the year for us to reflect upon our reasons for attending school. In line with this we decided to get the ideas of the masters on their purpose in teaching. We found them most interested and helpful.

Mr. Cook stated that his purpose in teaching was to train his students to think clearly and logically, even under adverse conditions, to develop their memory, and to learn to concentrate.

Mr. Brewer, in teaching English, has tried to introduce boys to certain types of literature which compare very favorably in interest with the current pictorial magazines. He has also attempted to teach grammar in such a way that good English speech will seem natural, not affected.

In presenting the sciences, Mr. Rudy has tried to prepare his students for college—especially the first year of college, which is unquestionably the most difficult—so that they will be successful academically.

Mr. Holley's objective is to infuse his interest in the subject of History into his pupils. He teaches for the satisfaction it gives him to work with boys in a field in which he is so much interested.

In teaching the Freshman courses in English and Algebra, Mr. McClintock has attempted to give his students a solid foundation in these subjects so that they may benefit from advanced instruction later on.

Mr. Stearns' purpose with Latin has been acquaint boys in his classes with the thought of the earlier days of civilization, and to show them a language more logical and precise than English.

We were unable to interview Mr. Petke on the subject, but we would like to mention his attitude on coaching sports. His purpose is to build up self-confidence in the boys on his teams, rather than try for an undefeated season, desirable as this may be.

In teaching Romance languages, Mr. Ralls endeavors to broaden the student's basis of culture by giving him a cosmopolitan point of view through leading him away from provincialism.

These views show the sincere interest and sympathy which our masters have for their classes. While they represent a wide variety of opinions, nevertheless they indicate real thought on the subject, and a desire to benefit their students by all means within their power.

PICK-UPS

By Vincent Kellogg

One of the latest reports of the Carnegie Foundation concerns College . . . so it should be of interest to most of us . . . A searching exam was given to many students all over the U.S. and these are some of the surprising though suspected things that were found . . . In one typical college, graduating about two hundred seniors, all of whom had completed the same course of study, it was found that if graduation depended upon knowledge acquired instead of on time served, three-quarters would not have received sheepskins . . . Instead 28% would have been juniors, 23% sophomores and 24% freshmen . . . Another choice bit was the difference between "high" and "low" colleges . . . Not one of the students of the "low" colleges reaches the intellectual level of the most stupid sophomore of the "high" college . . . For more of the same see the June 10th issue of Liberty . . .

Herbert Hoover claims that he has found that most anglers are "optimistic and also Republicans" . . . A rare combination to say the least . . . And then again with all their spare time . . . why not?

Despite all of Grover's publicity, New York still likes the beach, roller-coasters and hot dogs of Coney Island . . . Last Sunday three hundred thousand people saw the preview of the World of Tomorrow . . . But five hundred thousand were willing to remain with the world of today and stuck to the time tried pleasures of Coney Island . . . Five cent instead of two bit C. I. chicken . . .

To Mexicans we of the U.S. have always been "Gringos" . . . It seems that this goes back to the Mexican War . . . At that time the official march of the American Army was "Green grow the Rushes" . . . And so came about probably the first Mexican pun . . .

In every great pageant there always appears some pathetic note . . . In the recently opened Czechoslovakian pavilion at the World's Fair the flag is always displayed at half mast and a mural proclaims "Begun by the Republic of Czechoslovakia. Though unfinished, maintained by her friends in America." . . .

To the city of Chicago was left a very tidy sum to build a drinking trough "for man and beast" . . . A contest of the will held up construction for forty-five years, but at last work is under way, and the super-sumptuous fount will be erected near the shores of Lake Michigan . . . At least "man" has been able to survive to benefit . . .

One of the most recent additions to the comfort of the soda suckers is the "Sparkoffee Soda" introduced at Bamberger's . . . It's a takeoff on the Kaffee Hag or Sanka idea of "decaffeinated" coffee . . . Advised for those indulgers who are afraid their sodas might cause insomnia . . . or "jangled nerves." . . .

There is a Princeton senior who up until last week had not missed a single fire . . . Faithfully with the sound of the siren he was off . . . but an English exam caused the end of his record, something that the elements of nature were unable to do . . .

Albert Cooper, the driver of the truck that hit the limousine in which Queen Mary was riding, set a precedent for all future accidents of this kind and put to shame the American truck drivers . . . He sent flowers to the Queen . . . And what's more the Queen dispatched a very polite note of thanks . . . Instead we have withering epithets, coarse demands of "who's gonna pay," lawsuits and a determination that the next time we'll really show 'em . . . Some fun.

DEAR DIARY

Thurs., May 18:

Rumors have been floating around concerning the Carnival now in town. They were substantiated when Messrs. Mac and Stearns—of the faculty, need we state—hid themselves over and inspected the show. One of the exhibits, "Headless Olga," attracted these adventurous two, and they listened intently to the Barker's spiel. It seems that out of each audience, two are chosen to enter free, a man and a woman. To make a long story short, Mr. Stearns was selected as the lucky man to view free of charge the gory spectacle of a decapitated but living (?) woman.

Fri., May 19:

The Carnival was the center of attraction tonight. We went and enjoyed things greatly. First there were the rides, intended not so much for the weak-spirited as the weak-minded. Being of the latter class we indulged in several and had a swell time, even if the bejesus was scared out of us. Later on we found ourselves in front of the "Headless Olga" exhibit, and, sure, enough, were selected to go in free. Need we mention the other interesting and educational features?

Sat., May 20:

A tennis match between our school and Montclair was played today. It was ding-dong all the way, but we lost in the end. Unfortunately, MacKay, playing No. 1 singles, met his first defeat of the season.

Sun., May 21:

Since chapel has been suspended, everyone went to the church of his choice. After that, lunch and a dull enough afternoon playing tennis or loafing finished off a typical Sunday. No wonder each who can goes chez lui.

Mon., May 22:

Our two love-birds, "Georgie" DeVoe and "Mary" Cramer are now holding hands in Algebra class. It's all very touching. We also had a little English test, prior to this billing and cooling, which has left many of us wondering if maybe it isn't best to take a look in our new book now and then.

Tues., May 23:

The poison ivy brigade is with us. First Bugs Beadle came down with the itch, then our headmaster took to the white warpaint, and last of all, Henry Shafer is be-bandaged and daubed with ointment. In case any of you are allergic to the weed, beware of sending balls outside the tennis courts.

Wed., May 24:

Another tennis match, the opponents being the Hun School aggregation. They won to the tune of 3-2, but it was a good match.

Thurs., May 25:

Van Duzer made another infamous translation of The Argonauts today, which left his classmates weak from suppressed hysteria. Since Van's guessing is useless, we suggest—

Sat., May 27:

Our track team has garnished Prep with much glory. Rene Jagenburg, aided and abetted by his trusty pole, tied for first place in the State Championships. Unfortunately for Rene, when the two winners flipped a coin for the gold medal, he was awarded the silver, but the broken record's the thing. Also an exciting tennis match with Pennington, ending with a Prep victory.

Sun., May 28:

To his great joy, Dear Diary was in New York, but came back in time to witness two events of no small importance. First was Bob Weindel's plutocratic entrance in a taxi. We wouldn't walk either if we had thirty-five cents. The other was a unanimous blockade of Duzer-the-fag-flend. It seems that once when he had some of his own, he turned down a creditor from whom he had borrowed many. Our little friend in sheep's clothing, therefore, did not get any tonight.

SAWDUST SAWYER

By Roy Stogner

Just as the hot weather is a sure sign that the duration of the school term is shortening, so one knows that the June issue of THE ARGO marks the final chapter in the year's work. Owing to the inactivity of the inmates, which, incidentally, may be blamed on the weather, scarcely any printable news revealed itself to the roving eye of your up-and-coming young "colymist." However, a few observations were made—they follow.

All the seasons have some outstanding characteristic for which they are well known. Everyone unanimously associates winter with jingle bells. Summer is somewhat divided on the issue, with the bens of the Good Humor man running a close second to the variety of belles that one finds infesting the sea shore.

A couple of weeks ago Mr. Holley unknowingly made a very uncomplimentary comparison to himself and all concerned when he returned to find the Gamma House in a state of—er—confusion. "When the cat's away, the mice will play," quoted Mr. Holley.

Members of English III are pleased to report that the reason that Saints are portrayed with halos over their heads is because long ago, church statues had to wear tin hats because the birds flew so low.

Walter Reiney should get a tin medal for the best Paine recitation of the year. Boy, does he work hard! During a recent recitation he used so many letters on a figure at the board, that he was forced to add primes and subscripts to the letters because he had exhausted the alphabet.

An article which appeared in a foreign school advertisement recently, had a bit of unique "come-on" to tempt prospective students. The tuition of three thousand dollars included transportation from the United States to the school. "And don't be frightened by war-scares," continued the article.

"If war is not declared before August, then it will be safe to come to school for at least a year." The reason was that, according to history, no German war had ever been started until after the crops were gathered. So, it is evident, that if no war is declared before harvest time, then, in order to save the crops, Europe will be safe from war for another twelve months, by which time school will have finished for the term.

Don't quote me on this statement, but I do hear that Chink and Doug Turner are "that way" over their girl friends. The only difficulty lies in the fact that their girls are one girl. Quite complicated, isn't it?

That bunch of sociable-minded fellows who gave tea parties in their rooms—aided by contents from the ice-box, of course—have little in common with the Bostonians and their little tea party. The contrast lies in the effect of the suppression of the two.

"Darling" Brooke says he wouldn't know what to do with himself if he were off bounds for a week-end. Oh well, there's consolation in the fact that he won't have to do much worrying as to what to do this week-end.

Could it be true that the customs of yesteryear are returning? One never can tell, but evidence points toward the regeneration of old customs formerly participated in by the by-gone gentlemen of yesteryear. I speak of the honorable way of settling gentlemen's disputes—by duelling. It seems that recently, in a college of the south, two young men became infatuated over the same girl. Formally slapping each others' respective cheeks, the two declared that they would duel at dawn, with swords, of course. The flaming sun rose high into the sky the next morning, but no clash of swords echoed in the corridors of the college gym. The reason—well, one student's bag was gone—and a ladder was found under the window of the disputed one. Putting two and two together, the remaining student decided that with the strain off his pocketbook he'd be able to make a play for the blond on the other campus.

Prep Loses to Strong Seton Hall Nine

Outclassed by Group IV School Rivals, 5-2

Prep was defeated by the Seton Hall baseball team which has won forty-two straight games, at Neilson Field, May 24. Fred Ratti started on the mound for Prep, while Tuttle pitched for the Setonians. Prep played one of its best games of the season, but they were playing a Group IV school and a fine ball team.

Prep was leading, 2-1, at the end of the second inning, but the following frame saw Seton Hall score three more runs, to put them in the Van, 5-2. The rest of the game was a quiet between both teams to see which would be able to outsmart the other.

The boys from South Orange played heads-up ball, as did the Maroon and White team, with the result that the remaining innings of the game were scoreless for both teams. However, the spectacular playing of both crews provided the spectators with many thrills.

Tennis Squad Wins Pennington Match

Are Downed by Bordentown

After losing the first set of the deciding match against Pennington on Saturday, May 27, Freeman MacKay and Vincent Kellogg rallied to pull victory out of the fire and thereby give Prep a three to two triumph. MacKay had previously won his singles by the score of 7-5, 6-4 to gain the honor of being the only double winner of the afternoon.

Prep's other win was scored by Jack Coad who has made great strides as a tennis player this spring and is now firmly implanted as number three man. He won a hard fought match in three sets but never lost control of the play.

The most thrilling match of the afternoon was the number one doubles on which hung the outcome of the contest. MacKay and Kellogg won this match 4-6, 8-6, 6-4. They lost the first set, largely due to the numerous double faults that Kellogg was making. In the long second set Kellogg's service steadied down, and MacKay became more aggressive, enabling them to come from behind and finally win this crucial set. In the set that followed they kept up the pace and came through to remain undefeated in all matches played to date.

B.M.I. Wins 4-1

MacKay saved Prep from being whitewashed when he won their only match of the day on Wednesday, May 31. It was a sweltering day, and the cadets had too much all-round tennis power for Prep.

Burkley and Styler defeated George Styskal and Jack Coad respectively in the singles, and then Prep's number

Morristown Team Conquers Prep, 2-1

Werner Makes Prep's Point In Close Game

Bud Mains won his own ball game as he pitched and batted Morristown school to a 2-1 victory over Prep at Morristown's home field. Striking out ten men, he allowed few walks, and Werner was able to score only by stealing bases. This was Prep's sixth defeat in eight starts, while it was Morristown's fourth win in eleven starts.

Prep scored first in the fifth inning when Werner walked, with two men on base, and stole second and third. The next pitch by Mains was wild, and Werner went home to score the first and only run for his team. Morristown evened the score in its half of the same inning, as Dabney walked and scored on White's triple base hit with one man out. White, however, was stranded as Lippett nipped out, and Mains grounded out.

In the seventh inning Ballentine singled, was sacrificed to second by Dabney, and scored the decisive run on Main's double. Mains allowed Prep only two hits.

Prep Bows Before Lawrenceville, 7-2

Ratti Shows Up Well In First Full Game

Prep lost its fifth game in seven starts to Lawrenceville on May 17, at Lawrenceville's own diamond. It was Fred Ratti's first full game on the mound and he pitched excellently throughout the seven innings. Ratti struck out eleven men and allowed his opponents only four hits. Corby, of Lawrenceville, also did his share on the mound for his own team, by striking out seven men and allowing Prep only five hits.

After quite a pitchers' duel in the first inning, the Red and Black team scored two runs to put them in the lead. However, Prep soon tightened up, and it was not until the sixth inning that Lawrenceville scored again. In the meantime Prep scored two runs in the fifth frame, to tie the score. In the sixth inning Lawrenceville went on a spree and put five runs across the plate, making their team ahead seven to two. In the first half of the seventh, Prep made a desperate effort to score a few runs, but the Lawrenceville team was playing heads up ball, so in a short time the game ended with the Laurentians ahead, 7-2.

Prep Downed By Montclair Again, 8-7

Close Return Game Fails To Balance First Defeat

In a return game, Prep lost for the second time to Montclair Academy at the Montclair Athletic Club, by a score of 8-7. Jake Bartow started in the pitcher's box for Prep, and pitched well, but he got into difficulties in the sixth inning and was relieved by Fred Parkinson. Dwyer went the limit as pitcher for Montclair.

Prep scored one run in the second inning and one in the third, to lead, 2-0. However, Montclair came back in the fourth to tie the score, 2-2. Prep went scoreless through half of the fifth inning, while the rival team scored three runs. In the sixth inning Prep added another run, and the Blue and Red team went scoreless in their half.

As the last inning arrived, it looked black for Prep, but the New Brunswick boys went on a spree to score four runs, making the score 7-6 in Prep's favor. But the Montclair aggregation had not lost yet, and in their half of the old lucky seventh, they scored two runs to win the game at last.

Prep Tennis Team Defeats South River, 4-1

Loses to Montclair and Hun

Freeman MacKay led the Rutgers Prep tennis squad to its first victory of the season on Friday, May 18, by winning in both the doubles and singles. Jack Coad also breezed through two matches to be another double winner.

In the number one singles match MacKay defeated Moluski in three sets. His second victory came when he and Vincent Kellogg won their doubles in a match which was of little importance because Prep already led three to one. After losing the first set 6-4 and having the score five to one against them in the second, MacKay and Kellogg rallied to win 4-6 7-5, 6-2.

Coad, playing his first singles match of the year, had little difficulty in defeating Parr 6-2, 6-2. Coad then teamed with George Styskal and won again in straight sets.

The only South River victory was that of Alexander over Farley 6-0, 8-1.

Montclair Takes Team's Measure

A well balanced Montclair tennis team won all of the singles and lost only one of the doubles matches to down Prep 4-1 on Saturday, May 20. The lone Prep victory came when Freeman MacKay and Vincent Kellogg won their number one doubles and thereby remained in the undefeated column.

MacKay lost his first singles match of the year in a long three-set match.

Styskal and Coad were downed in singles and also in their doubles. MacKay and Kellogg won in straight sets but were extended in the second. They won 6-4-10-8.

Bow to Hun, 3-2

For the third time this year Prep's tennis forces were downed by the slim margin of one point. Hun School presented a fighting tennis team that won two matches after losing the first set. These two matches, the number two and three singles, along with the number two doubles, were enough to give Hun a victory on Wednesday, May 25.

MacKay came through to turn in his usual double victory. He defeated Ridder in the singles 6-4 6-2, and then joined Kellogg to win the number one doubles in three fast sets.

The heart breaking match to lose was the number three singles when Jack Coad lost to George. Coad won the first set, 6-2, and then made a strong bid for victory in the second but finally lost it 7-5. The third set was won by George 6-2.

The other Hun victories were turned in by Hoyt in the number two singles and Ridder and Bishop in the second doubles.

two doubles team, Coad and Styskal, were downed 6-3 6-3. MacKay and Kellogg lost their first doubles match of the year to Burkely and Cady 6-3, 1-6, 7-5. As usual they lost their first set and then made a strong comeback to win the second set with ease. It seemed highly possible that they might still win the match, as both sides held service up to five all. They suddenly collapsed, however, and lost the next two games for an unexpected defeat. MacKay defeated Engle in the number one singles 7-5, 1-6, 6-0.
