NATATORS PRACTICE UNDER MR. J. REILLY FOR FIRST CONTEST

Light Drill Feature of Instruction
As Swim Team Is Enlarged
By Football Men

The candidates for the Rutgers Prep swimming Team are rounding into good form, with the preliminary swimming practice now well on its way. As the practice is only light, only a half hour is devoted to instruction, and the aspirants are free to do as they wish for the other half hour period. Many additional candidates are expected to report since the Thanksgiving recess is over. Grid stars are now free to attend practice, so the squad will probably be enlarged. Coach James J. Reilly has been developing the candidates with steady exercise, in order to round a formidable team into shape. A strong team is needed as the schedule is very heavy.

Leonard Spence, world champion in the breaststroke and free style events, will be without doubt the outstanding member of the 1932 team. Spence has been without equal in the past. He has no meagre reputation as a swimmer, and should make the United States Olympic team, for which he has been striving for the last two years.

Jack Ready, sensational New Jersey sprint champion, has been resting from a season on the gridiron, and will report for practice this week. Ready should also meet with continued success this season. He expects even a superior season.

James Reilly, fourteen year old son of Coach Reilly, is expected to gather honors in diving. This event has always been the weak section of the Prep team. Reilly may have to do solo honors in the diving event.

ARGO PINS PRESENTED TWENTY WEDNESDAY

The Argo pins were awarded last Wednesday morning, November 25, in conjunction with the athletic letter presentation. Fifteen men on the editorial staff received their insignia, as well as five members of the business staff. Further pins will be presented in the near future to those who fulfill the requirements.

The five from the business board were Harry Sampson, James Reilly, Carl Virgine, William Kott, and Franklin Joseph, business manager.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR COMING SEASON IN PREP BASKETBALL

New Brunswick Stars Supplement Team
While Other New Men Strive For Positions

Daily basketball practice for the coming season will begin early this week, according to Coach Charles H. Brown.

Mr. Brown called a meeting of all prospective candidates last Tuesday afternoon.

This year prospects are brighter than they have been for several years due to the fact that many players who distinguished themselves last year on various teams throughout the state are now attending Prep. A large number of these played on the New Brunswick High School Team last year. Among them are included three men who were named for the New Jersey All-State basketball team. They are: Pennington, Lins, and Jablonsky. Pennington and Lins who played guard on this year's football team played forward, while Jablonsky played center. Levin and Fertig are the other members of the squad who played for New Brunswick last year.

Wehr, Strapp Try Out

Paul Wehr and Strapp are also trying out for forward positions on the team. Strapp is the only man who won a basketball letter in 1931 now attending Prep. Wehr attended Tamaqua High School last year where he starred as forward. His accurate shooting and passing will probably be an important factor on this year's team.

The members of the football team who wished to try out for basketball have not been allowed to attend early practice, as Coach Brown wished them to have a complete rest before beginning basketball practice. Those who will probably report for practice include Richard Keating, who played on the Black River Academy team last year, Lander, who played on the Metuchen team last year, and Morris Grossman, who played in the intra-mural basketball game at Prep last year.

A great deal of potential material is represented in the remainder of the squad which means that there will be keen competition for the positions on the first team.

Competition Heavy

Last year's team was not a success in respect to the number of games won, due to the lack of experienced players. This year, however, with such material at hand competition should be great. A hard schedule has been arranged, but everything points to a championship team for the season.

The manager of basketball has not been chosen as yet but will be picked before the season opens. Franklin Joseph, who was manager of the football team for this year, has made application for the position. The captain will also be chosen in time for the first game.

FALL SPORT LETTERS AWARDED BY ASS'N

The football and cross-country letters were awarded by the Athletic Association on Wednesday, November 25. Fourteen football men, eight cross-country runners, and two managers received their letters.

Football letters were given to Lander, Brost, Pennington, Head, Ready, Klauer, Keating, Braid, Grossman, Lear, Cain, and Joseph, manager. Eligibility was decided on the basis of play in one-half the total number of quarters played by the team in the season's schedule. Vargo E. Wood, and Jorgenson, received letters by special recommendation of the Association.

Cross-country letters were awarded to O'Donnell, captain, Linders, Stengel, C. Wenz, Heinrich, Pettit, Watson, and Harris, manager.

COLLEGE, PREP CHOIRS JOIN IN DEVOTIONAL

Prep Glee Club Praised by Director
For Augmented Chapel Service

On Sunday, November 15, the Rutgers Prep Glee Club combined with the Rutgers University Chapel Choir at the devotional services of the two schools. The augmented vested choir consisted of about fifty voices. The splendid cooperation was commended by Professor E. McKinney, Director of Music at Rutgers. Much praise is due to Mr. Edmund M. McClosky for the excellent rendition of the selection during the service. The combined clubs sang the anthem, "I Will Praise Thy Name," by McDougall. Mr. McClosky sang also the response, "Father in Thy Mysterious Presence Kneeling," following the prayer. It is expected that the two clubs will again combine at some future date.

According to plans, Mr. McClosky intends to hold bi-weekly rehearsals. This is due to the need of more time for tone work, as the club is intending to undertake the learning of new and difficult selections. Plans are being formed for the promotion of broadcasting again this year. It is expected that Mr. McClosky will accept the various offers to broadcast which were extended last season.

No decision has been reached as yet concerning the definite choice of members for the quartette. This will be decided within the current week. There are no members remaining from the quartette of last year, which scored repeated successes in public concerts and over the radio, and thus the entire group will be new.

GRID SEASON ENDS AS PREP SUCCUMBS TO PRINCETON TIGERS

Prep Wins Six, Loses Two Games
in Heavy Schedule; Team
Best in Years

On Saturday, Nov. 14, Rutgers Prep bowed to a heavy Princeton Prep eleven in Buccleuch Park. The Tiger Cubs netted their lone score on the last down, with the three preceding plays all within the one-yard line. The touchdown came midway in the third period and was helped by a 5-yard penalty which gave Princeton the ball on the one-yard line and four downs to make the goal. McCrohan converted the try to make the score (7-0).

For most of the game the Rutgers grid-der outplayed the heavier Princetonites, the touchdown of the latter coming at the beginning of the second half, when they received, and following the one long drive of the game. The majority of their gains were secured by the use of a short forward pass and an off-tackle slant.

Long Drive Checked

The Maroon and White eleven made a final desperate bid to win when it made 60-yard on four plays, just before the end of the game. Driven back to the 20-yard line by Hoff's punt, Prep started an offensive drive that seemed to be headed for a score. Klauer tossed a forward to Keating, good for 15 yards, and two running plays, with Braid and Grossman doing the carrying, brought Prep to midfield. The final play of the game was a toss by Pennington to Grossman. He was tackled on the 20-yard line.

The line-up:

Rutgers Prep (0)	Princeton Prep (7)
L.E. Keating	Scheaffer
L.T. Jorgenson	Stoess

DANCING WITH TEARS

The Thanksgiving Dance was more than a social success. It was the birth of a new idea for Prep, as well as the first attempt of a long-for desire. There were, however, many rough spots, which must not be placed to the discredit of the committee. Rather, it is the fault of a much worn, antiquated system, which is obviously impractical in these days. To amend this system is the only possible solution.

Ballroom dancing is very fine—in its place—but to attempt to introduce it into the informal gatherings held at Prep, is nothing short of ludicrous. A glance at other outside dances might be the clinching factor for this. When a Prepster begins to attend dances he has reached at least one or more stages on his rise to maturity. Why should he not then be treated with proper regard to his age? Instead of the usual friendly hints given by the chaperones, might it not be more to the point to have some properly appointed delegate or delegates from the student body assigned to this duty? Here is a balm to soothe the sting of indignation!

Smoking is another subject which has come in for a great deal of discussion. It is very embarrassing for an escort to leave his partner in order to have a smoke. An explanation has never yet been so satisfactory, to avoid the usual questions

Elmer Rice in Article Dons Sun Glasses To Shut Out Blinding Rays of Optimism

Author Rejects Fancy That Pessimists Are Agents from Moscow, Alibed Lovers or Incisive Evil Eye

"I am a pessimist. Not just a panic-pessimist, not I. I am one of your congenial dyed-in-the-wool, fair-weather pessimists. You will find me pessimistic in the year when United States Steel is quoted at 310, when Babe Ruth slams out one hundred and eighteen homers, when Lindberg makes a non-stop flight across the Pacific, when Amos'n'Andy marry Grete Garbo and Clara Bow in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

Need I say that there is in the United States, a prejudice in favor of optimism? Keep smiling, don't knock. The sky is the limit. Come in without knocking, go out the same way. Watch my smoke. Hail, hail, the gang's all here. For he's a jolly good fellow (which nobody can deny). There's a silver lining, 'neath the dark cloud shining. Pack up your troubles in your old kit-bag and smile, smile! So run the popular slogans and refrains.

And in the popular fancy, the optimist figures as a jovial, tubby fellow, with a bright eye, a merry laugh, and a touch that instantly reduces children and animals to delighted subjection. The pessimist, on the other hand, is a gloomy figure: lean, dyspeptic, saturnine, insomniac; more likely than not a celibate, embittered by unrequited love, who turns his malignant regard upon the laughing multitudes thronging by in the sunlight. The evil eye, that is what he has! A foreigner, probably; a paid emissary of Moscow, if the whole truth were known. The calamity howler! The wet blanket! Gumming the works, is he? Put 'im behind the bars, or run im out of the country: that's what they ought to do with 'im right, too.

I do feel that I am qualified to discuss the political and social aspects of pessimism. It is quite possible that if all the pessimists were shot tomorrow, things would instantly change for the better. Unemployment and poverty would disappear, along with crime, disease, jealousy, hatred, war, and Sunday. Of course, being a pessimist, I do not think so. But now I am simply treading a circle! Anyhow, I am glad to say that, as yet, no one (to my knowledge) has suggested shooting us. (You see how little it takes to gladden a pessimist! That is the very point to which I am leading.)

I shudder to think what the life of an optimist must be like. To go on, year after year, believing in El Dorado, in the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow, in good times ahead, in what lies just around the corner, in the ship that will come in; and to be assailed, day after day, by the realities of life!—How can any but the thick-skinned remain an optimist and survive?

But take the thorough-going pessimist—I do not believe that life has anything to offer. I am always prepared for the worst. A cloud to me means not a silver lining, but the probability of rain and the possibility of pneumonia. I expect little or nothing from my friends and in this way I am not frequently disappointed.

There is one more point. The optimist thinks that he is indestructible. Snap out of it, keep going, don't give in to yourself. No, it is the optimist who is suffering from indigestion—psychic indigestion.

And no wonder! Poor fellow, all his life he has been seeing nothing but doughnuts."

RANDOM NOTES

(All boys are urged to contribute items for this column, which we hope to make a permanent section of the Argo.)

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly spent the Thanksgiving holidays very pleasantly in Atlantic City, and while there attended the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Middle States and Maryland.

According to Mr. Brown, lives, on account of the depression, have been reduced in value to 98 cents.

Jesse Arango is maintaining the spirit of '30-'31 on the top floor of Delta these days with Spanish songs, sung always with volume if sometimes without harmony.

We cannot but wonder why Bob Linders goes home every weekend, unless it is to allay the political discontent now permeating Joisy City.

The Argo is glad to report that Mr. Brown's mother, who has been critically ill, is somewhat improved as we go to press.

Mr. and Mrs. Thatcher entertained at their guest over last weekend Miss Constance Barwiss, of New York.

Si Tremain was recently able to hear broadcasts over his radio from Cuba and Mexico City.

The recent dance afforded unusual opportunities of ~~displaying~~ at first hand varieties of tripping on light fantasies in the modern way. Among the features of the evening were "Rhapsody Whirl," by Mr. McClosky; the Trackster's Hop," (new) by Tom O'Donnell; "Fatima," by Jack Tallman; "The Swan Recuparates," by Cleon Dodge; and "Cornell Urge" (new) by Dr. McGinn.

Three weeks.

Mr. Cook enjoyed the Thanksgiving holidays with his family in Hancock, Mass.

Mr. Laramore had as his guest during Thanksgiving, Mr. J. Wright Tatum, of Fort Gaines, Ga., a former classmate at the University of Georgia.

Dick Keating, in addition to being our popular man-about-town and Prep's mainstay at N.J.C., was elected by popular vote as the man at Rutgers most representative of the "Spirit of Notre Dame."

Blind dates have become somewhat unpopular of late, but after Heinrich's luck at the dance they ought soon to be in vogue again.

The former Jo-Jo Joseph, heiress to the Ready millions, has postponed final arrangements for her Reno plans until after the holidays, and refuses to be interviewed further.

Ping-pong is fast coming into its own as a major sport at the Trap.

Rosenberg recently created a sensation in heroism by diving off the gym bluff into the canal to rescue golf balls.

PREP CONTRIBUTES TO CHEST

The Community Chest Drive that was held in New Brunswick was assisted by the combined Rutgers Preparatory and Elementary Schools. The money was donated by the employees and faculty of the two schools.

The contribution to the Community Chest was $283.00 and $153.00 for the unemployment fund, making a total of $436.00. The drive ended officially on November 19, although contributions are still being solicited due to the fact that the quota was not met.

from the lady, as to the reasons for her inability to leave the dance floor. The solution to this seems to lie in the formation of a chaperoned group which might gather outside the doors only between dances. There is no apparent reason why such could not be arranged.

Like all other things, rules must change in accordance with the times, and therefore the dance regulations at Rutgers Prep should be amended to fit the modern trend.

COACH TASKER HONORS ROCKNE

Mr. J. Wilder Tasker, head coach at Rutgers University, spoke before the student body on November 13, in behalf of the Knute Rockne Memorial Fund. This fund is being raised to erect a tribute at South Bend, Indiana, to the great football mentor.

Couch Tasker was a personal friend of Rockne. He said, "I knew Rockne as a man. He was a true type of American manhood. Knute was able to reach his men. They believed in him, and fought for him. He was a good diagnostician of football."

Mr. Tasker continued by saying that the world rooted for the winner, and forgot the loser despite the old maxim to the contrary. "Play sixty minutes with all you can give. Do the job well, but don't slip off," concluded the coach.

by the disheartening score of 19-0. Until the half Prep and Newton were fairly balanced, though the score was 7-0. During the second half, however, Newton's team, which outweighed Prep 20 pounds to the man, wore Prep down, so that although they came within the 10-yard line three times in the third quarter, Prep was unable to score.

The feature of the game was a 95-yard run by Decker, Newton right half, following the interception of a lateral pass. The last score of the game was also made on an intercepted pass, caught by Bucheit.

On October 31 Prep defeated St. Paul's school of Garden City, L. I., by a score of 12-0. Braid and Grossman scored the two touchdowns, while Klauer's work in interfering and blocking was exceptional. At the end of the game Prep was within two feet of the goal. The first score was made on an end run by Braid, which was preceded by a series of plays by Braid, Grossman, and Klauer.

Montclair Tapped, 7-0

Prep downed Montclair Academy by a 7-0 score at Montclair on October 24. The touchdown was scored by Grossman. The score was made a few minutes before the game ended, but on the whole Prep outplayed Montclair. In the first half the game was marked by a punting duel between Pennington of Prep and Campagne of Montclair.

Grossman's off-tackle slant was responsible for the lone score of the George School game. Pennington and Lander starred in the line. The playing of McPhillips and Small of George School was exceptional.

Rutgers smashed through Brown Prep of Philadelphia for a 19-0 score on October 10 in Buccleuch Park. The end runs of Grossman and Braid were outstanding, and Prep outdid the Philadelphians in every way.

The success of Prep's season may be judged by the following chart:

COURTING THE MUSES

THE THREE KINGS' ROAD

By Anna Blake Menquida

When all the tassel has been laid away,
The tree is stripped, the fevered rush is past—
You still have trees, a hill, a child at play.
And love, and prayer, and fadeless things that last.
Wear your proud purple underneath your load!
Touch hand with one who travels lone,
afar!
Brave your dark night and walk the Three Kings' road
To find your Christ beneath his lovely star!

He loves, I know, our pretty baubled trees,
Our busy shops, our laughter young and gay.
Our ribboned gifts—have we no gifts but these?
No bright, red wreaths except for Christmas day?
Though broken is some toy beneath your feet,
Some dear illusion shattered, or grown dim—
The Three Kings' road goes by your dusty street
That leads up to a star—and Him.

THANKSGIVING DANCE WELL MANAGED

The Thanksgiving Hop was attended by about thirty-five couples despite rainy weather on November 20. The Gymnasium was decorated by the committee in a new and novel way. Simplicity seemed to be the order, although the efficient method in which the affair had been planned by the committee was evident. New plans are being formulated among the students for future dances.

PING-PONG CONTEST STARTED AT SCHOOL

A new sport at the "Trap" was introduced last week, when Richard Procter suggested that a Ping-Pong tournament be held among those interested at the dorms. Under the sponsorship of Mr. Thatcher plans were completed. Early this week an announcement was made to the effect. It was also requested that all boys who desired to play should hand their names to Procter.

Great interest has been shown, and about thirty trap boys have entered in this newest of Prep sports.

Every afternoon the rounds are being played in Delta House. Strenuous practice is being resorted to by the aspirants to the Ping-Pong crown. Richard Procter seems to be the greatest threat among the local entries. Following close on his heels for honors are Warren, Arango, Rosenberg, and Kott.

The favorites seemed to be running true to form in the opening turns of the contest. The first upset occurred when William Kott scored a decisive victory over Stuart Whitaker, who had been slated to win. There will no doubt be many more of these before the tournament is over.

Further results and a complete story of the tournament will be given in the next issue of The Argo.

Shave Good Prospect

Scott Shave, who gained reputation and his letter as a breaststroke swimmer last year, should be another good prospect. Shave was the dark horse of the 1931 team.

The following members of last year's team are expecting to again compete: Brown, Whitehead, and Shermehorn. Dodge, a new member of the school, has a good reputation as a Y.M.C.A. swimmer, and may prove an excellent addition.

The schedules have been announced and are listed elsewhere in The Argo. Two interscholastic and one state meet are among the contests.

ERRATUM

In the cross-country article in the last issue of The Argo, it was stated that no captain had as yet been elected. This was an error as Thomas O'Donnell had been chosen several days before.
