INDEPENDENT SCHOOL COUNCIL MEETS; DISCUSS DRAFTING OF CONSTITUTION

The New Jersey Association of Independent School Councils meets for the second time tomorrow on Saturday, October 5, at the new Elm Farm Campus. Representatives of the member schools will assemble in the large conference room at one o'clock. Michael Jacobs '64, President of Rutgers Preparatory School's Student Body, will preside as chairman.

The drafting of a constitution will be the main topic of discussion. How to get more schools to become members of the Council will be another problem of the meeting. Carole Neivert '64

Vice President of the Rutgers Preparatory Student Council and head of the Dance Committee will talk about the possibilities of dances with member schools. Schools expected to be represented include Rutgers Preparatory School, Vail-Deane School, Kimberly School, Hun School, Wardlaw School, and Hartwidge School.

JAMESBURG'S VICTORY IN FEAT WITH PREP

Rutgers Preparatory School was handed its first loss in two outings by Jamesburg this past Friday on the Prep Soccer field. Both of these teams were evenly matched in ability, but Jamesburg got two lucky breaks and scored twice. Prep was unable to score even though it was in front of the Jamesburg goal for much of the game.

As in Soccerama, Prep's game was good defensively. Outstanding in their defensive play were Mike Gottlieb and Ed Huber. Mike Jacobs and Ken Krafchik played their usual fine game. Bob Yacknowitz led the fullbacks in their defensive play by spoiling several sure goals for Jamesburg. This gave Prep's front a chance to score, but they were unable to do anything offensively. This, however will not be considered as Prep's usual game because it is made up of a greatly improved team.

The new addition on the team, Ed Gorchinski, is a wing on the forward line. Soccer is a new game for him, but already he shows speed and ability.

This week the Prep Soccer Team is on the road for two games against Morristown on Wednesday, and Englewood on Friday.

PREP'S PRIDE PATTY; AN EXCELLENT DANCER

Rutgers Preparatory School's talented freshman, Patty Neivert, is an excellent dancer. For many years, Patty has been attending the Newark Academy of Ballet. For Patty, ballet is more than a mere interest, it is a part of her life.

This past summer, she attended a dance camp in Colorado. The camp had helped Patty prepare for the coming Garden State Ballet try-out on October 26. Eventually, Patty intends to make ballet her profession.

ARGONAUTS TOPPLE MORRISTOWN PREP WHILE FOUR PREPSTERS TALLY GOALS

The Rutgers Prep Soccer Team won its second game of the season at the expense of an inexperienced Morristown Prep Team, by the score of 4-2, on Wednesday, October 2. The team looked real good for the first three quarters but played poorly in the last quarter, though they held on for the win.

This game saw the return to the line-up of inside Bill Landau who, although he didn't score, played an aggressive game up front. Jim Gunkle put Prep on the scoreboard first when he booted home a goal early in the first quarter, for his third goal of the season, tops on the team. Lenny Busch, who played a real good aggressive game, scored the second Prep goal in the second quarter. It was Len's first Varsity goal.

The third goal also came in the second quarter when center half back John Adams made a beautiful shot from about forty yards out. Ray Peachey finished the Argonauts scoring with a third period tally, his second of the game.

The Morristown eleven, unable to do much offensively against Prep's first team, tallied two goals against the second unit. This win starts the Argonauts off on the road towards its second straight Private School League Championship.

J.V.'S LOSE LUCK TO JAMESBURG TEAM

The Rutgers Prep J.V. Soccer team who won their opening game of the season could not repeat the performance against Jamesburg on Friday. Jamesburg, which always fields a fine soccer team, showed its superiority in handing the J.V. eleven a 4-0 loss.

The J.V.'s are a young and inexperienced team. Most of last years players have moved up to Varsity leaving Coach Rich Wasowski little to work with. Starting out with the basic fundamentals he has quickly worked them into shape.

The starting line-up at line are: Witkin, Taub, Patt, Szekles, Kosa; Midfields: Strong, Tucker, Gale; Fullbacks: Lehn and Nardone; and John Donahue in the goal.

The Undefeated Cross Country Team will seek its second sin today at the expense of Franklin Township High, here at 3:00 P.M.

The Rutgers Preparatory School Varsity Soccer Team will play the Rutgers University Freshmen Soccer Team, on our home field 3:30 this afternoon.

CROSS - COUNTRY START IN STYLE

The Argonauts Cross-Country Team started its season in fine style by taking a 19-36 decision from Jamesburg last Friday.

Leading the Prepsters across the finish line was first place winner Mike Konz. Running second and third were Carl Connolly and Jeff Burke respectively, while Glen Drew drew sixth and Jim Callaghan seventh. Coach Fenstermaker was pleased with the finish and looks forward to a promising season.
