Laurie Farley, '40, Tells of Life At Dartmouth College

Difficult Freshman Year
Consists of Much Work
And Little Play

Life at Dartmouth is a continual process of work, play, and sleep with emphasis, of course, on the work. It is very difficult to put into words just what it is that pulls this life toward perfection. The training or growing of the mind for some goal is in brief the purpose of an education. I mentioned "growing" . . . favorable atmosphere and good conditions are prerequisites for a successful growth. With that bit of moralizing, I think that I have hit the main reason for Dartmouth's success. The location, the very liberal rules, the people, and the multitude of extra-curricular activities all develop a favorable atmosphere and good conditions under which one may achieve the major thing in college—knowledge.

There are many things that make up Dartmouth life. First of all are the books about which I have probably talked too much; they will not be mentioned. (Continued on Page 4)

Theatre Club Sees "The Corn Is Green"

The last production attended by the Theatre Club of the Rutgers Preparatory School was the current Broadway success, The Corn Is Green starring the great Ethel Barrymore. The party consisted of twenty-two boys and two masters, Mr. Stearns, and Mr. Matthews. This, the last play which the group is to attend this season, was seen on the evening of May tenth.

The play deals with the efforts of a very determined and human woman to help the underprivileged boys and girls in a small Welsh mining town. Toward this end she determines to found a school, since very few of the miners can even read or write. She meets continual opposition from the very first. The squire checkmates her attempts to buy a building for the school, and the owners of the mines refuse to let their workers study. But she perseveres, and in the end gets her own way. ## BOUND COPIES OF THE ARGO

Any boy who wishes to have his own copies of THE ARGO bound should bring them to Mr. Stearns not later than Monday, June 2. The price for binding is two dollars. The binding may be selected by the boy and stamped as he wishes.

There are a very few extra copies of THE ARGO on file, from which boys may complete their own volumes if they have lost any issues. A limited number of complete unbound volumes is also available. Any boy who requests it may have a set of these bound for himself at no extra cost beyond the actual binding.

Honor Roll Shows Great Increase As Final Exams Near

The Honor Roll for the month of May shows a sharp increase over last month's with ten boys placing. Eight others attained Honorable Mention. Another source for pleasure, besides the augmentation of names, was the fact that the averages on the whole were much higher.

Cyril Nelson, '44, led a group of six boys who attained an average of over 85 with a naverage of 94. He was followed closely by David Beardslee with 92.5. Three other Seniors and a Sophomore also made over 85.

The general increase to eighteen of the boys attaining an average of over 80 was a source of satisfaction. Although the work this year has been somewhat below average, this month's (Continued on Page 3)

SEMI-ANNUAL PARENTS' DAY RECEPTION MADE GREAT SUCCESS WITH BASEBALL VICTORY

The Rutgers Preparatory School held its semi-annual Parents' Day reception a fortnight ago at the dormitories. It is held in order that the parents and teachers may become more familiar with each other and discuss the problems of the boys. The day was somewhat windy and cloudy; however, the sun seemed to beat through at intervals, whenever the school team scored a run. The boarding school turned out en masse, plus the small number of day students who could brave the rigors of walking to the traps.

The team played baseball for the entertainment of the parents. The school was rightly victorious, 12-9. After the game the reception and luncheon was held in the dining room of the boarding school, at which time Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Shepard, Jr., acted as host and hostess. Mrs. Harry E. Rudy and Mrs. Henry L. McClintock poured coffee. The faculty members mingled with the guests.

The luncheon menu consisted of French fried potatoes, chicken a la King, and asparagus tips. The dessert was French vanilla ice cream with brownies.

The following were present: Rev. and Mrs. Beardslee; Mrs. Beaudette; Mr. and Mrs. Bretzfeld; Mr. and Mrs. Butler; Mrs. Carroll; Dr. and Mrs. Clothier; Mr. and Mrs. de Hosson; Mr. and Mrs. DeVoe; Mr. and Mrs. Evans; Dr. and Mrs. French; Mr. and Mrs. J. ## Rutgers Prep Plans 175th Commencement

Mr. Robert Albion of Princeton University to Deliver
Baccalaureate

MR. SIMPSON IS ORGANIST

Headmaster Will Present
Prizes and Awards
During Ceremony

On the morning of Thursday, June 12, the 175th Commencement of the Rutgers Preparatory School will be held. These exercises will be held in the Kirkpatrick Chapel. It is compulsory that every member of the Student body be present at these exercises, which formally close the school for the summer months.

One of the most important aspects of the Graduation proceedings is the necessity that every member of the student body come dressed in proper attire. Mr. Shepard requests all seniors come to the exercises with white pants, a dark coat, and a white shirt. He also asks that the underclassmen come in a dark suit, and a white shirt. Although dark blue suits are preferred, any dark suit is satisfactory. If a member of the student body does not abide by these requests at the commencement exercises, he will be greatly embarrassed and out of place.

Rehearsal at Nine-Thirty

At nine-thirty on the morning of June 12, the senior class will hold a rehearsal in Kirkpatrick Chapel, for the commencement exercises. At ten o'clock the entire student body will assemble at the school building for a final organized student meeting. During this period, President Joe Cramer will give out the athletic awards for the spring sports. Also during this period, Mr. Shepard will give the students final instructions about the Commencement exercises.

At ten forty-five, the students will assemble by the College Avenue entrance to Prep school building. Here a procession of the whole student body and faculty will be formed. The underclassmen will lead the procession, and they will be lined up, according to their respective heights, with the (Continued on Page 4)

PREP'S NEW SPORT

This year, for the first time, the Rutgers Preparatory School is able to boast of a crew squad. The establishment of rowing as a major sport may well be the start of an eventual supremacy for the school, comparable with the championship basketball team of two years ago. The boys have worked hard, and although their showing in their first two races was not outstanding, still it must be realized that they were competing against older athletes and better equipment.

The crew is of use to the school in several ways, not the least of which is the fact that it offers a sport in which boys who do not care for baseball may participate. Secondly, it gives the school an added attraction to induce boys to come to Prep.

The boys on this first crew have worked hard. They are especially to be commended for their interest in and enthusiasm for an activity the future of which was doubtful at the outset and which has been conducted under trying handicaps. The boathouse is a great distance from the school; the transportation facilities have been erratic; and the equipment is old and outmoded. But their efforts have shown that crew should by all means be included in the school's athletic curriculum, since it provides not only enjoyment for those participating, but also excellent training in obeying orders and subordinating individual ambition to a common objective.

It is to be hoped that someday the school will have one or more good shells, but these will not arrive until crew is firmly established in the interest of the boys as a whole. To reach this goal, in future years the requisite number of students must come forward and as unselfishly as this year's have done put up with some inconveniences. By the support of the school itself, the perseverance of the students, and the help of the advisors, crew can well become as well known a function of Prep life and as popular a sport as any other now included in the school's program.

THE COMPOSITE PREP STUDENT

The typical Rutgers Preparatory School boy, or for that matter the typical boy in any private school, is made up of a goodly number of different types.

He has a little of the man of the world about him, and likes to picture himself as being up to any occasion and of being ready for anything. For the most part coming out for almost the first time into society, he feels quite superior to those a year or so younger, and this has some justification.

There is a large piece of the athlete. The average boy can play almost any game with some show of skill, and many are of superior quality. He likes a rough and ready hand to hand life, where boredom is infrequent and there is always one escapade after another coming up.

There is also a liking, although it is sometimes hidden, for school-work, hard as it is to understand. Almost every boy in school has hopes of going to college and of making good in his chosen field, and toward this end each realizes the need of a good training. Although they may seem awful at the moment, everyone will look back wistfully

There is a large piece of desire for adventure. Tibet, India, Africa, Ceylon,—these names conjure up romance which cannot be denied. To travel at will and to act as one pleases, these seem like paradise. But since these places are for most of us unreachable, the next best thing is escapades at home, which at least allay the longing for real adventure.

NEWS and VIEWS

by Sheldon Binn

A young man, who was very much in favor of the draft and wished to be inducted, was leaving his draft board. He had just been accepted, with the exact minimum of teeth necessary for acceptance. As he was leaving he heard two men making jeering remarks about selective service. He resented the aspersions, forcibly. A moment later he had two teeth less than the minimum.

From Colorado comes this amazing little story. After a warning from Supervisor Joseph Marsh that the state highway patrolmen might have to make arrests without getting out of their cars because of trousers worn out in the seat, the state has provided more money to buy new ones.

The findings of the draft boards have produced this amazing piece of statistics. The married men are more fit than the single ones. We cannot understand it. What with rolling pins, plates, new hats, and mothers-in-law, the poor married men should be in terrible health. The only moral we can draw is stay unmarried and you won't be drafted.

With the surrender of the Duke of Acosta and his Fascist legions, the British have brought to a close their first successful campaign of the war. It has in itself some promising results. It will release thousands of troops for the defense of the Suez which is at the present time being threatened by a German pincher movement. Let's hope they get there in time.

Banks are usually conservative organizations, but two banks in Memphis are exceptions to the rule. This recently came up with a new wrinkle, curb service. They announced plans for "outdoor windows" to which motorists could drive up and hand their deposits to a teller. This, we think, is going to simplify matters for hold-up men.

Joseph Clemente is in a tough spot. In 1936 his parents went to Portugal, met a pretty girl, and decided she would make a good wife for Joe. So, with no hesitation he married her by proxy. When she finally arrived in the United States, she was immediately sent to Ellis Island to see if her papers, etc., were in order. So far Joe has

Prepsters Lose Magnificently To Lawrenceville

School Nine Fails to Stem Attack of Opposing
Baseball Team

The Rutgers Prep baseball team lost its first game in three starts when they were defeated in extra innings, 5 to 4, by a highly favored Lawrenceville nine.

The Prepsters took the lead in the first inning when Bobby Wilson, the Lawrenceville pitcher, was a little uneasy and walked Harold Korshin and Howard Woodruff, the first and third men up. Bill Evans promptly hit a sharp single, scoring Korshin. Again in the first half of the third, the New Brunswick boys hammered Wilson, son of the Chicago Cubs' manager, for a run. Matty Hahn singled, stole second, and came home to score when Evans hit a hot liner to Dick Clark, Lawrenceville shortstop, who allowed it to pass into left field.

Lawrenceville came right back to tie up the game on a walk, two errors, and a single by Al Binzen. The Prep nine combined three errors, a hit by Ralph Ruocco and one by Hahn to put themselves two runs ahead in the fourth inning. This ended the Prep scoring for the day, and they settled down to play a brilliant defensive game.

Wilson started his team moving when he hit his second home run of the season in the fifth inning. Lawrenceville tied up the ball game as they drew two walks and a scratch single off Hahn who was pitching a very beautiful game.

The score remained tied in the seventh and in the first half of the eighth. In the last half of the first extra inning, Jack Elnet reached second safely when Bill Pfaff, Prep third baseman, allowed a grounder to go through him. Then Glass, the leadoff man, got hold of the second pitch and walloped a line drive to left field, driving in the winning run.

GOLFERS LOSE CLOSE DECISIONS TO LINDEN AND METUCHEN; DEFEAT MONTCLAIR ACADEMY

The Rutgers Prep golf team was host to Linden on May 6th, and was defeated by them, 7-5, on the Rutgers University course. Dick Meyers of Prep halved the first nine for half of a point, while Harvey Moynihan came through and won his match for three points. Bob Cramer collected a point and a half, giving Prep a total of five and one-half points, and Linden a total of seven. The match was called after twelve holes had been played.

On May 9th, the Prep golfers were host to a powerful Metuchen team which subdued them 7 to 5. Meyers halved his match for one and one-half points. Cramer won the first nine and halved the second for two and one-half points. Sam Bretzfeld lost his match, while Moynihan won the first nine for a point.

Three days later the Prepsters traveled to Metuchen to complete the home and home series with the Me-tuchen High School Golf team. Again Mr. Rudy's boys were overcome by the Metuchen lads. Meyers won the first nine and the eighteen holes for two points. Moynihan halved the first nine and added one half point to the Prep score. Cramer and Bretzfeld both lost to golfers far more experienced than themselves. The final score showed Prep on the short end of a two and one-half to nine and one-half score.

Playing by the Intercollegiate rules, the Prep golf team subdued Montclair Academy by a score of three and one-half to two and one-half, on the University course May 16. Meyers defeated Tomkins for one point, and both Meyers and Bretzfeld scored low ball between them for the second point. Cramer and Moynihan were good for one-half of a point as Cramer surpassed his opponent for an additional point.

Newark Academy Wins Over Prep Baseball Team, 9-8

The Rutgers Prep nine suffered their second setback of the season when they were overcome by Newark Academy, 9 to 8, at Newark in a very wild and loosely played contest.

The Rutgers Prep batsmen moved into the sixth inning with an 8 to 4 lead, gained by two uprisings in the fourth and fifth innings, but their advantage was wiped out after Bob Clothier lost his control in the last half of the sixth.

Clothier turned in a neat job of relief hurling in the fourth and fifth frames, after Dick Sexton had been knocked out of the box, but he lost his control and walked the first three batters to face him in the sixth on twelve successive pitches.

Matty Hahn, who was hit on the elbow of his pitching arm, was sent in to hurl, but he was nicked for three doubles by Levenson, Sears and Petrucci before the side was retired. These five runs proved sufficient, as the visitors were unable to score in the last inning.

The Prepsters outit the winners, 11 to 8, but were unable to deliver their blows in the pinches during the early and late stages of the slugfest.

Prepster Nine Rallies To Top Montclair, 11-8

Five-run Uprising in Fifth
Caps Prepster's Late
Surge to Victory

Rutgers Prep's baseball team, rated poor by pre-season dope, upset the forecasters again with a stunning 11-8 victory over Montclair Academy on May 10 at Neilson Field. The Maroon tilters, losing 6-1 early in the fray, rallied magnificently in the middle innings to win handily before a large Parents' Day crowd.

Montclair, taking advantage of hurler Matty Hahn's early wobble, nicked the Prep twirler for six counters in the first two frames. Prep sandwiched in a tally in the first when Hahn walked and rounded the bases when a wild throw to first went out into right field. From there on, however, Prep dominated the conflict, as Hahn limited his foes to two runs in the remaining five innings.

Prep scored three runs in the third on two errors, a stolen base, a fly ball, an infield out, and one hit, Ruocco's Texas-league two-bagger to centerfield. After the visitors had scored a singleton in the top of the fourth, Prep countered with two more runs on singles by Korshin and Pfaff, Ruocco's infield out, and a passed ball.

The winning Prepsters concluded their uprisings in the last of the fifth with a five-run cluster. Bill Evans led off with a sizzling three-sacker to right field and scored on Potter's single. Potter moved around to score by stealing second, going to third on an infield out and scoring on Korshin's blow to left. Korshin moved all the way around to third on the throw in and scored when Pfaff's grounder went into right field. Joe Pfaff followed with a beautifully-placed two-sacker to tally Pfaff. Pfaff scored the final run on Hahn's fumbled grounder. Montclair scored one run in the top of the seventh to make the final count, 11 to 8.

The winning Prepsters, in chalking up their second successive victory, looked good after the second stanza. Hahn settled down with good infield play behind him. Potter's sensational running catch of a ball into short left field highlighted the fielding aspect of the game which was marred by numerous errors, especially on the part of Montclair.

Bob Morrison, '40, is to be married in June.

MORRISTOWN BOWS TO HARD-HITTING PREP BALL TEAM

A powerful Rutgers Prep nine captured its third victory in five starts by defeating Morristown School, 10-5, at Morristown. The game was highlighted by the steady pitching of Matty Hahn and the general hitting of the entire Prep team.

The Prepsters took the lead in the first inning and never lost it throughout the game. The decision inning of the contest was the second. The New Brunswick boys pushed over four runs to lead 5-0. George Mederer, first man up, drew a walk, and advanced to third on a double by Joe Pfaff. Dick Farkas promptly singled out to left field, advancing Pfaff to third and scoring Meder. Harold Korshin, lead-off man, hit a line drive into center field, for a ringing single, bringing Pfaff home to score. Jimmy Potter who had a perfect day at Morristown by getting three hits for three tries, added two runs to the score by ripping out a savage base hit into center field.

From this point on, it was easy sailing for the Rutgers boys. Although Morristown had but one less hit than Prep, yet by the brilliant pitching of Matty Hahn, their hits were scattered throughout the seven innings of play, whereas the Prepsters grouped their hits into their scoring periods.

This was by all means the best game the Prep team has played thus far. Coach Petke made a new shift in his infield by placing George Mederer, former first baseman, on third base and placing Bob Friedman on first. Both played a good game and deserve merit. Joe Pfaff, second baseman, rejoined the club after a week's layoff because of a bruised finger.

smallest boys in front and tallest in back. Immediately behind the underclassmen the seniors will follow and the faculty last.

The procession will march in double line until reaching the front of Kirkpatrick Chapel. Here the two lines separate and stop. Between the two lines will march the school faculty, and they will be followed into the chapel by the seniors and lastly the underclassmen.

Rev. Brink, Mr. Albion to Speak

The commencement exercises will begin at eleven o'clock. The families and friends of the students and faculty are cordially invited to attend the Commencement. The organ will be played by the school's English master, Mr. Davis M. Simpson. The Invocation and Benediction of the Graduation proceedings will be pronounced by Daniel Y. Brink, minister of the First Reformed Church in New Brunswick.

Mr. Shepard, the headmaster of the Rutgers Preparatory School, will be the leader of the Commencement exercises. The main speaker of the exercises will be Mr. Robert Albion. Mr. Albion is a noted and respected leader at Princeton University at Princeton, New Jersey.

Preceding Mr. Albion's speech the Cum Laude Awards will be presented. The Cum Laude Awards are given to those members of the senior class, who, during their stay at the Rutgers Preparatory School, have showed their fine scholastic ability and have done the most to help the school as a whole.

Awards to be Made

The various other awards are then presented by Mr. Shepard. These awards are presented to different members of the student body. Awards to be given at these exercises include: The John V. N. Dorr Prize, awarded to the outstanding member of the senior class; The Liberty Loan Prize, awarded to the outstanding member of the lower classes; The Headmaster's prize, awarded to the member of the graduating class who has shown the greatest scholastic improvement during the 1940-41 year; and many others.

After Mr. Albion has given his address to the group gathered in Kirkpatrick Chapel, the awarding of diplomas will be made by Mr. Shepard, the headmaster, to the members of the graduating class. This is the moment of triumph for those boys who have worked hard for this diploma during their stay at the Rutgers Preparatory School.

Luncheon at Traps

At the close of the Commencement exercises, which will last approximately forty-five minutes, a buffet luncheon will be held in the campus of the Rutgers Prep dormitories. All the students, their families, and immediate friends are cordially invited to attend by the headmaster and the faculty. The luncheon will offer the students a chance to say "goodbye" to their friends and teachers before they depart for their summer vacation.

LIFE AT DARTMOUTH

tioned again. The Freshman has a great deal to do during the early fall because of two reasons; he is in strange territory, and upper classmen have plenty of furniture to be carried and rugs to be spread out and learn the "in's" about things in general. Fraternities are not thought of in the first year because of a college rule holding them off for the gay young Sophomores.

One of the few rules in the Freshman Year is that you have to eat in Freshman Commons. The food is fair but is called almost anything for the sake of conversation. The size of a fellow's wallet determines how many weekends he takes to Smith, Wellesley or any other place where women are to be had. There I mentioned it!! Women they are the only "things" that are lacking. One (not I) finds it rather difficult to pass the long hours without the fair sex. But, as I said, there are many places that one can go.

When winter comes, snow comes; also sub-zero weather. If you have never skied, you will soon learn how. Most likely the first time that anyone tries it he will land up in Dick's House (the Infirmary). But again that is all in the fun. Winter Carnival is quite a relief after the first exams. Of course, no one is ever satisfied with the Queen they pick, but then that's just something more to gripe about.

Once in a while the fellows will wander down to White River for some amusement. The papers say that it is the first place that Hitler will bomb—hurrah! Also it is the nearest place with a Neon Light. Spring is a dangerous time up here, because if the weather is nice, it is death to the books. Almost as soon as the snow melts and the mud dries up, the fellows are spread out all over the place taking sun-baths. There are two swell golf courses and many tennis courts to help you while away your time. Green Key weekend is the marker for the second invasion unable to find any other place for her school, she uses her own home, and to get pupils, pays them the salary that they would have otherwise obtained in the mines.

Among the pupils she discovers one with very exceptional ability, and she tutors him privately for a couple of years. However, she works him too hard and gives him no real friendship and he rebels one day, turning up in the costume of a miner. She is hurt and walks out telling him that she has given him a great deal of her time to making him into a gentleman, and although she would like him to return, he can go back to his old life if he so desires. After she has gone, he has an affair with a bawdy little wench which seems to calm him down, for he returns the next day without a word and works harder than ever. In fact, he works with such diligence that she decides to try to get him a scholarship to Oxford. This she does, with the help of the squire whom she wins over by flattery. However, just as they hear that the boy has obtained the award, the girl whom he had seduced walks in with a baby, and demands that he marry her. This he determines to do, although he knows that he will not be happy and that she will probably run away in a little while. But in the end the woman, his teacher, persuades him that his duty to his country and fellow-citizens is greater than his obligation to the girl, and he finally accepts the scholarship.

The play was well staged and well acted, the parts of the teacher, the boy, and the girl being especially noteworthy. It is one of the best plays, if not the best, that the group has hitherto attended. It ended the Theatre Series with a tremendous climax to a very successful season.

of women. That is the great out-door weekend during which everyone goes on a picnic Saturday afternoon and drinks beer.

I cannot tell you any more except that if you want to know anything further about Dartmouth ask Mr. Petke. I am sure that he will be able to tell you anything that you may wish to know.

I would like to say hello to all the fellows whom I still know at Prep School.

been married more than a year and has seen his wife for less than a minute. We suspect that the immigration authorities are lenient and everything will turn out fine. If this gets around, we are likely to have an influx in the immigration of foreign born girls. If your wife cannot speak English, your ears will be in better shape.

of Richmond), Mather (University of South Carolina), Miller (University of Pennsylvania), Nann (Lehigh), Robinson (Union College), Weidman (Pennsylvania State College).

It is assumed that almost all of the other graduating Seniors will also enter colleges but they have not yet designated their choices.

Our best wishes for a pleasant and very successful future are extended to all Seniors irrespective of whether they attend college or not.
